Think Tank

X-Risk, Apocalypse
Economics, Polycrisis

Dear [REDACTED]
US State Department

I am pleased to introduce you to Esparavel, a next-generation global think tank dedicated to addressing the most complex and consequential challenges of our time.

At Esparavel, we specialize in existential risk (X-Risk), apocalypse economics, and polycrisis management. Our work sits at the intersection of strategic foresight, systems thinking, and adaptive governance — with a focus on understanding not just individual crises, but how they intertwine and amplify one another across ecological, technological, geopolitical, and economic domains.

We believe that in an era marked by volatility and uncertainty, societies and institutions must move beyond fragility — and even beyond resilience — toward antifragility: the ability to learn from chaos, adapt under pressure, and grow stronger through impact.

Esparavel brings together interdisciplinary researchers, public policy innovators, and unconventional thinkers to generate future-facing ideas, practical frameworks, and actionable strategies. Our aim is to support decision-makers — in governments, institutions, and the private sector — in preparing for a changing world and thriving within it.

In an age of interconnected crises, we don't just ask what could go wrong. We ask how to build what comes next.

We would be delighted to collaborate, exchange ideas, or explore how our work might support your mission. Please don't hesitate to reach out if you'd like to continue the conversation.

With appreciation,

Chief Operating Officer
